Eagles In Regional Contest

County Cuts Tax Tab, Appoints Vote Judges

In a busy Monday afternoon session, Randall County commissioners appointed general election judges, trimmed a nickel off the tax rate in 1964, approved an insurance plan for sheriff's deputies, and cranked up an elevator project for the courthouse.

On the motion of Bill Butler, Precinct 4 commissioner who was elected on the Republican ticket, commissioners voted 3-1 to approve a list of election judges which includes GOP representation in voting precincts 12 and 15, both in South Amarillo.

Judge for Precinct 12 will be Sam Rutledge, with Ernest Stroud as assistant judge. Judge for Precinct 15 will be Mrs. Betty Sterquell, assisted by William A. Meyers. Rutledge and Stroud will succeed O. V. Vernon and W. V. York, respectively. Mrs. Sterquell and Meyers will succeed Lindy Ward and Mrs. Lindy Ward.

Voting for the amended list were commissioners Butler, Glenn Dowlen and Clarence Beckman. Commissioner B. R. Jones of Precinct 1 opposed the change.

The amended list was approved Monday without discussion after Butler had argued in previous meetings that Republicans were entitled to representation in Commissioner Precinct 4 because they had cast a majority of the total vote in the last election.

"Election judges in the past have always been Democrats," Butler said. "I just want to make it a little more even... there'll still be more Democratic than Republican judges in the precinct as a whole."

He also announced Wednesday that Democrats would have representation among election clerks in voting precincts 12 and 15. The list of clerks for the county is scheduled to be approved next Monday.

In other pre-election business, the court unanimously approved moving the voting place for voting precinct 13 from the WTSU field house to the Student Union building.

On the motion of Commissioner Jones, the court voted to include Sheriff L. S. (Slim) Johnston and his deputies in the accident insurance plan now carried on all county road workers. The action was taken after Commissioner Butler reported that premium paym-

Anson Next As Rattlers Lose

Lubbock here we come--again!

This was the cry of Canyon Eagle fans after the 49-39 conquest of Stinnett's Rattlers Tuesday at the Sam Houston Junior High gym in Borger after a Class AA bi-district tussle.

The win gave Canyon, District 2-AA representative and co-champion, the green light into the Region I tournament at Lubbock Saturday.

Anson, tournament favorite, will be the Eagles' first foe in the opening round at 11:30 a.m. The District 6-AA kingpin was a 73-59 winner over Seymour in bi-district.

Winner of the Canyon-Anson clash is scheduled to take on the victor of the Dimmitt-Comanche game Saturday at 9 a.m. The winner in that duel will advance to the state tourney at Austin the following weekend.

In taking the win, the Eagles displayed such a potent defense that Stinnett managed to move under the basket only one time for a layup. The Rattlers were forced to get off most of their shots in a hurry in an effort to keep pace with the fast-moving Canyon crew.

The effort failed as Stinnett put up 42 shots from the field but connected on only a meager 11 for a freezing 26.2 per cent.

But this wasn't the only thing to give Canyon its 26th win in 35 starts. The Eagles showed an excellent offense which worked for the percentage shots--and got them. They hit 21 of 37 tries from the field for a hot 59 per cent.

It will mark the second straight year that Canyon has made its way to the regional tourney. Last season it battled all the way to the state finals before falling to Buna, 47-41.

The going may be a little tougher this year with the sharp Anson squad to get past in the first round.

There was very little doubt as to which team would win Tuesday at Borger. The only question was how much.

Don Breitling connected on one of his shots from the corner with only 12 seconds gone in the contest to put the first two points on the clock. Bobby Evans hit from the top of the circle at 6:49 to give Canyon a 4-0 lead.

All of the starters--Steve Burgess, Eddie Poole, Jim Whinnery, Don Breitling and Bobby Evans got in on the first quarter scoring act. At the end of the stanza Canyon was out front, 13-6.

With the second period more than half over at 3:15 the Eagles extended their lead to 17 points on a jump shot by Skip Moore, 26-9.

Halftime count was 28-14.

Canyon dumped in 11 of 17 attempted field goals the first half for 68 per cent.

Whinnery was high point man for Canyon at the half with eight points. Poole had 7.

The Eagles held a 12-16 point lead throughout most of the third stanza. Going into the final period Canyon was out front by a big 16 points, 39-23.

Canyon held its biggest lead in the contest with 6:25 remaining to be played, 43-25.

Stinnett did manage, however, to trim the final margin to 10 points.

School Board Eyes Evaluation Report

A thorough study of the curriculum and program in the Canyon school system was presented to school board members at a special meeting Monday night.

Superintendent Huelyn Laycock presented the detailed report on each phase of the educatoin system.

The meeting was in conjunction with a visiting evaluation committee which will view the Canyon public schools March 8, 9 and 10.

Seventeen men and women will study Canyon's system and report to the school board and interested persons at an open meeting Tuesday night, March 10, in the Canyon High School auditorium.

Visiting committeemen will talk with teachers and principals and study the self-evaluation report, which has been made by the teachers, principals and superintendent.

Laycock outlined to board members Monday the number of students enrolled in various courses and the number of teachers handling the courses.

Hobert McDonald, guidance counselor for the schools, explained the tests given each year to the students in order to record achievements, aptitudes and mental ability.

High school principal J. E. Miller gave a brief outline of the two graduation programs offered to students in Canyon high school. Miller pointed out that one program prepares students for college entrance and the second program is for terminal high school students.

He continued by saying no students are presently enrolled in the terminal program for graduation.

"Approximately 85 per cent of our students attend college or a university," Miller observed.

Laycock explained the committee, which will evaluate the Canyon schools, does not represent any accreditation organization, but will act only as an invited committee.

"We hope to learn from their visit and we invite the public to attend the open meeting Tuesday night (March 10)," Laycock said.

Those to be on the evaluating committee are Miss Dorothy Filgo of Texas Technological College in Lubbock; Mrs. Bernice Railsback of Levelland Public School; Mrs. Elizabeth Gr-

Commission To Speed Canyon Cab Ordinance

City commissioners this week cleared the way for cab service in Canyon by instructing City Manager Dewey Bryant to draft an appropriate ordinance for regulating the enterprise.

The action was taken at the regular commission meeting Monday evening after Bill Taylor of Canyon outlined plans for a cab service and Bryant reported on specimen ordinances in effect in other Texas cities.

As outlined by Bryant, the ordinance would provide for granting a franchise, imposing a small franchise tax on gross receipts, and regulating charges and service.

Taylor, who now operates a package delivery service, said he planned on offering a 24-hour cab service that would meet all state and city requirements.

The enabling ordinance is expected to be ready for consideration by the commission at the next regular meeting.

In other business, the commission discussed at length the problem of apportionment of costs of construction of sewerage lift stations which may be required as the city grows.

A. L. Crossland, Canyon real estate developer, said a shortage of building lots now exists in Canyon, and predicted that growth of the city will be south of the present City Park and

Students To Vote

New Phone Scheme Suggested For WT

Students living in West Texas State University residence halls were scheduled to vote this week on a proposal to provide expanded telephone service.

As outlined by Dr. Paige Carruth, dean of men, the proposed service would:

1. Provide each room with a telephone.
2. Allow 24-hour communication between residence halls.
3. Allow 24-hour service on calls placed from residence halls to off-campus telephones.
4. Allow off-campus calls to residence hall telephones from 7:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. daily except Sunday, when such calls could be made only between 1 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

Estimated cost of the service is $10 per person per semester.

He estimated at least one additional full-time switchboard operator would be required on campus to handle the expanded system.

"The system involves a considerable change in downtown office equipment and in switchboard equipment on campus," Dr. Carruth said, "but some other schools have made the change and report general satisfaction.

"The thing that bothers us, of course, is the increased charge, which added cost to getting an education.

"That's why we're taking a vote--leaving it up to the students themselves. We're certainly not trying to force the proposed service in the face of a lack of student support for it."

Festival Scheduled March 7

A carnival of entertainment will be sponsored by the Canyon Rotary Club at the annual festival in the Canyon Junior High gymnasium on March 7.

The festival, originally planned as a fall project, will include entertainment for all ages with a special visit from Freddie the Fireman for the children.

A festival queen will be crowned during the evening from a field of four high school candidates. Voting for the queen contestants will be held at a special booth according to Jerry LaGrone, contest chairman.

The queen will be crowned at 9 p.m.

Vying for the title are Mary Ann Wheelock, Janet Ritter, Cynthia Gerald and Nancy Meyer. The beauties are being sponsored in the contest by the Kiwanis Club, the Lions Club, the Rotary Club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Game booths will be set upat the festival headquarters in the gymnasium with prizes to be given away at the conclusion of the evening program.

Members of the Rotary-Anns will sell canned foods, preserves and other home-made candies, cakes and pies from the country kitchen booth. Frank Morgan is chairman for the kitchen concession.

Joe Gidden, food concession chairman, notes that sloppy-joe burgers, soft drinks and other foods will be on sale during the carnival festivities.

Profits from the festival will be used by the club to sponsor a variety of youth activities in Canyon and all residents are invited to attend the festival Saturday night, March 7.

Memories, Please--

For Randall County, 1964 is the big Diamond Jubilee Year — an occasion for everybody to join in celebrating three-quarters of a century of growth and progress.

Here in Canyon, big doings are in the making.

A public celebration is planned for July 30-31 and August 1.

The Canyon News will be in the big middle of things. In the planning stage is a special Diamond Jubilee Edition that will look at past and present Canyon and Randall County.

You can help us.

The News needs pictures — old and new — tips on city and county history, hints for stories that will capture some of the flavor of old times.

If you have any of these things to offer, please give us a call at OL5-2141, or stop at the News office, 414 15th Street.

We'll be waiting.

Thompson, Ritter In City Race

City commissioners Clarence E. Thompson and George Ritter will seek re-election in the Canyon city election April 7. Mayor Delbert Lowes, whose term also expires this year, said earlier this week that "as of now, I don't plan on filing."

The election order setting the election for April 7 was issued by the city commission at the regular meeting Monday evening. The voting place will be in City Hall and poll hours will be from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Deadline for filing for a place on the city ballot is March 7.

Thompson, a Canyon businessman, is completing his second term in Place 2. Ritter, a professor of government at West Texas State University, is completing his second term in Place 3.

All terms run for two years.

Lowes, mayor and Place 1 commissioner, said Tuesday he is disinclined to seek re-election because "my health hasn't been too good for the past year or so."

Commission places held by Paul Lindsey and John Williams are not involved in the election this year.

New Bank Request Is Denied

An application for a charter for another national bank in Canyon has been denied.

This information was released early this week by Robert Grubb with the office of the US Comptroller of Currency.

The group making application for the charter was substantially the same group which applied for a state charter the latter part of last year.

That application also was denied.

Look Before You Leap--

It may be Leap Year, but for Donna Williams of Matador, WT junior, those pinup fellas on the wall can just stay in the movies. She's already engaged to Guy Campbell who attends Tarleton State College in Stephenville and looks handsome enough to be in the movies, too.

Chamber Of Commerce Corner

LET'S GET TOGETHER

I was recently elected as your incoming President of the Canyon chamber of commerce. I appreciate the confidence placed in me by the members and directors of this organization. It is my desire to bring to you each week information as to what is going on and different things to think about concerning the objectives that we will be working for during this year.

I feel very sad on this occasion when I take office as president. I cannot be like a distinguished American politician leader, who once said, "I would rather that people should wonder why I WASN'T President, than why I am."

We are now in the process of getting organized and your Board of Directors are the policy-forming branch of the chamber. It authorizes the program of work, approves its budget, receives and passes on committee recommendations and directs the general operations of the chamber. Members of the Board of Directors are not expected to do all the thinking for the organization, of course. It is their responsibility to maintain close contact with members of the chamber and with other leaders in the community. Such contacts provide a sound basis for identifying the most important needs of the community, for determining the specific objective toward which the chamber should work and for developing a program of activities that will make maximum progress in attaining the established goals. In simple words we are working for you, our members and citizens of this town. We need workers-members to serve on important committees, and I think I know what the minister meant when he said, "many are called but few get up."

This is an organization of people working together, to make their community a better place in which to live and make a living. We are composed primarily of business and professional men and women who have a common interest and pride in their community.

I have been going over a list of the membership and also business firms of our town who are not members. It has been ten years since I last served on the chamber board and was chairman during 1954 when we worked hard for the expressway and park. It is gratifying to see the growth of our town both residentially and commercially. We have around 40 more business and professional people and the population of our town has increased to over 2,700 more people. We now have a radio station, a bowling alley, two more motels and other businesses that I will not now take the space to name. Look around at many of the towns East of us in the Texas Panhandle of Texas and you will see quite a few that are decreasing in growth rather than growing. We are having the fastest growth of any town in the Panhandle, and it will continue to grow. It is our job to start planning years ahead-to present the problem or project- where do we go-. To clarify the problem-why are we going? To stimulate group thinking-How can we get there-to follow the discussion what's the best route? The summarize these discussions-How far have we gone?

In our community we believe in living and enjoying the best things in life. The best things in life are not always the most expensive things. People who judge happiness by what money will buy are like the fellow who had worked hard and never made very much money. One day he was shocked to learn that he had a disease which would result in his death within a few months. All his life this fellow had a desire to own a cadillac. When he learned the verdict of the doctor, he took his money from the bank and bought himself a Cadillac. This he enjoyed for a few weeks, but as the time obviously grew close when he must leave this world, he went to a funeral director and arranged that he be buried and insisted that he should be buried in his Cadillac automobile. Not long after the poor fellow was put to rest inside the new and shinny Cadillac. One of the mourners present at the funeral watched the proceedings as the corpse was laid to rest in the cadillac, and said, "Man, that's living".

Those who have false notions about what is living may be disappointed in things they are searching for and fail to find in our city, but those who know what they want can find real happiness and pleasure here. No one has security but everyone has opportunity and few have it made and those who think they have it made may end up broke anytime. You cannot manage your neighbors business and yours. Let's spend more time with our own business. If you want to make the town better and try to keep from losing your own shirt; then let's all roll up our sleeves and go to work. Let's get together and quit knocking our town and tell everyone what a great place it is to live in. Let's realize that we are all taxpayers and everyone has the right to spend his dollar as he chooses. Let's take the LIVE AND LET LIVE attitude and be good neighbors to everyone. My closing thought is, "Courtesy is an investment which pays regular dividends in friendship."

Yours for a better community,

Charles E. Donnell

We've heard a lot about the new administration's "War on poverty."

We just wonder when some politician is going to have the guts to declare war on indolence, apathy and many of the other viruses which caused the disease of poverty in the first place.

If such a man arises, he will cease to be a politician. He will become a statesman. Then the politicians will raise a hue and cry for his blood.

The masses will back the politicians because people do not want to be told that the best way to arise above poverty is to go to work with head and hands.

Lenin said "Religion is the panacea of the people."

Lenin realized that to subjugate the Russian people the religion in which they had put their trust had to be destroyed. This Lenin did as ruthlessly as his lieutenant, Leon Trotsky, put Kronstadt to the sword.

We hope everyone will read Allen Drury's article in the Reader's Digest currently on news stands.

Drury tells of the dangerous game of "let's pretend" that we are playing with world communism. We can bring the application of his article much closer to home.

At this point in our country's history we are at a crossroad. On the one hand is freedom for the individual and on the other is centralized, paternalistic, bureaucratic big government in which many individual freedoms must be submerged.

Sometime soon all of us must ask ourselves the question: Which do we want?

Hubert W. Oppe, assistant professor of sociology at West Texas State University, supervised the conducting of a survey at WT recently.

The survey showed that students at the university are predominantly liberal.

About the only thing surveys have shown in recent years--and we're speaking of the big ones--is that surveys don't really show anything.

Leaders in both political parties privately admit that surveys mostly are used to influence rather than to reflect preferences.

People are herd conscious. They want to be with the group.

This is borne out by mores of various societies, clothing styles and many other peculiarities indicating man's herd tendencies.

Politicians have learned in the last decade what we in advertising have known for years. This is simply that the phrase "Everyone is doing it" has a lot of sell.

So politicians have begun using surveys as tools of politics.

We've received information that a newspaperman south of here has cancelled his membership in the West Texas State Phoenix Club, an ex-student group, because Louise Evans is lecturing at WT on editorial writing.

This man claims to be open minded. He says he believes in giving both sides of a story and yet he quits the Phoenix Club because he doesn't like Louise Evans.

Louise is an editorial writer for The Globe-Times. She's not lecturing on political science at West Texas. She's lecturing on the mechanics of editorial writing.

Anyway, the last time we checked with Phoenix Club officials there was no hint that the organization might fold for lack of this "open-minded" fellow's support.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

We would like to urge each and every American who is interested in the welfare of his country to take a good look into the current Civil Rights Bill which is before the Senate. We feel that this bill is unconstitutional and violates our American freedoms and rights. Come to the aid of our American ideas now before it is too late, and write your congressman to vote "No" for this infamous bill!

Leap Year is here, if you are one of the few who have failed to notice the mile-a-minute sprint by girls to get the boys from the front door step to the altar.

Women are accused of possessing conniving, calculating minds and mannerisms when faced with the perplexity of the opposite sex. And how true these accusations may be.

From the time little ladies are old enough to bat their eyelashes, they are taught how to wear perfume and blush embarrassedly at the correct moments.

Men, at the same time, learn to appreciate these small traits in each female. In fact, they learn to expect subtle hints given by each woman as she begins her "catching him" routine. He seems to know just what the girl is doing as she weaves her web of possession around him. And if handled properly, the young (or old) gentleman enjoys being 'caught.'

No rules are necessary when a girl and boy are involved in chasing each other But somewhere along the route of the chase, girls begin to figure out ways to end the run with a final relay down the aisle.

Do men have a chance? Well.. yes, if they really want a chance. But the reason flirting eyes and soft voices are so effective is because the victim is usually enjoying all that special female attention.

So far, so good and the future is looking even better for the Canyon Eagles as they begin regional play this weekend. In one sense we hope history repeats itself..as far as getting to state finals, but from there we hope the high school boys write a new page in the books.

The Eagles are looking better each game and as they travel the road to the state finals they will probably improve in their ball handling ability.

Good luck to Allen Simpson and the Eagles as they face regional and state teams in the next several weeks.

Hilltop Views

BY DR. J. A. HILL

Two hundred thirty-two years ago as this is written the English colony of Virginia gave us and the world George Washington--one who was destined to become an all time Great in the history of mankind.

Because it is important that the people of this country shall forever cherish his charcter, his service not only to us but to all mankind, and his personal ideals and public policies, we are quoting today a few evaluative statements from his contemporaries and others.

* * *

Abraham Lincoln:

"To add brightness to the sun or glory to the name of Washington is alike impossible. Let none attempt it. In solemn awe pronounce the name, and in its naked, deathless splendor leave it shining on."

* * *

Chauncey Depew great American Statesman:

"He stands the noblest leader who ever was entrusted with his country's life.---the foremost figure of history."

* * *

Daniel Webster:

"America has furnished to the world the character of Washington, and if our American institutions had done nothing else, that alone would have entitled them to the respect of mankind."

* * *

Thomas Jefferson:

"On the whole, his (Washington's) character was, in its mass, perfect; in nothing bad, in few points indifferent; and it may be said that never did Nature and fortune combine more perfectly to make a man great, and to place him in the same constellation with whatever worthies have merited from man an everlasting remembrance. ----I felt on his death, with my countrymen, that, 'Verily a very great man hath fallen this day in Israel."

* * *

George William Curtis, in analyzing Washington's character, says: "Nothing but his serene ascendency could have ridden the whirlwind and directed the storm that burst around him" while he was President. "Party spirit blazed into fury. John Jay was hung in effigy; Hamilton was stoned; insurrection raised its head in the West; Washington himself was denounced. But the great soul was undismayed. Without a beacon, without a chart, but with unwavering eye and steady hand, he guided his country safe through darkness and through storm. He held his steadfast way, like the sun across the firmament, giving life and health and strength to the new nation; and upon a searching survey of his administration, there is no great act which his country would annul; no word spoken, no line written, no deed done by him, which justice would reverse or wisdom deplore." What an example in self-control and tolerance!

* * *

Now two quotations from Washington himself.

1. To his army: "The General is sorry to be informed that the foolish and wicked practice of profane cursing and swearing, a vice hitherto little known in an American army, is growing into fashion. He hopes the officers will, by example, as well as influence, endeavor to check it, and that both they and the men will reflect that we can have little hope of the blessing of heaven on our arms if we insult it by our impiety and folly. Added to this, it is a vice so low and mean, without any temptation, that every man of sense and character detests and despises it."

2. "If there was the same propensity in mankind for investigating the conduct of public characters, it would be found that the censure so freely bestowed is oftentimes unmerited and uncharitable."

Some cars do best on the highway. Others seem tailor-made for city driving.

Then there's Corvair—that gets along just great most anywhere. Swishing along a highway. Scurrying around in traffic. Or wading through a soggy trail.

Take highway driving. Corvair's got a bigger new engine with horsepower up nearly 19% in the standard version. But in case figures don't impress you, just wait until you head a Corvair for some far-away places. You'll get the message.

Take city driving. Corvair's trim size, light steering (because the engine weight's in the rear) and flat cornering make anything from rush-hour driving to parking a cinch.

Take back-road driving. The weight of Corvair's engine bearing down on the rear wheels gives them remarkable gripping power on most any surface, whether it's loose, solid, dry, wet—or even snow covered.

Something else you can take note of, too: There's no radiator to overheat or run dry. No hoses to check or replace. No need for antifreeze. The engine's air cooled.

Beginning to sound like a car you can really warm up to? Then there's only one thing left to take: a ride in one at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Services Conducted For Keys

Leslie Keys, father of Mrs. Charles Brasher of Canyon, was found dead in his pickup truck last Thursday morning, Feb. 20, near Channing.

Mr. Keys was discovered by Arle Smith, who summoned the Moore County Sheriff's office. Justice of the Peace, R. E. Sims, ruled death was caused by a heart attack. Moore County Sherriff John Easley said that Mr. Keys had apparently suffered a heart attack shortly after leaving his home near Channing about 8:30 a.m.

The pickup had run off the road and struck a fence where it was stalled when discovered.

He was born Feb. 15, 1903, in Maypearl, Texas, and had been a resident of Moore County for the past 16 years. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Dumas, where funeral services were conducted Saturday morning with Rev. Edward Rogers officiating.

Burial was at Dreamland Cemetery, Canyon, Saturday afternoon.

Survivors include his wife, Ora, of the home; a daughter, Mrs. Charles Brasher of Canyon; a brother, Clyde of Dallas; a sister, Mrs. Eunice Higgins of Waxahachie, Texas, and one granddaughter.

Rev. Jack Boyett, pastor of the church, was guest speaker for the banquet which was held in Fellowship Hall of the Church with 26 young people and guests attending.

In the event that you will not be home, you may attach the card to your door where they may be picked up.

ents would not be prohibitively increased by the additional coverage.

After hearing a brief report from E. T. Cummings, county auditor, the commissioners voted to reduce the county tax rate from $1.50 to $1.45 this year. He suggested that builders and the city might share the cost of sewerage lift installations on a 50-50 basis, with a payback arrangement that would allow recovery of the capital investment as new homes were built.

No action was taken on the problem.

The commission also approved payments of 1963 installments to developers under terms of a series of payback agreements in connection with water and sewer construction. Installments total $6,033.95, leaving a balance of $10,800.41.

Included in the budget is provision for a longevity pay plan for city employees, a $10,000 item for an additional city water well, and $7,500 towards purchase of an additional pumper truck for the Canyon Volunteer Fire Department.

Champion-Style Team Play Takes Crown

BY JOHN SHIELDS

Champ-calibre accuracy from the field and key free shots in the second half at Tulia Friday paved the way for Canyon's second straight trip into the state basketball playoffs.

Floydada--District 2-AA co-champion with Canyon--lost its bid for the coveted spot by falling to the tremendous second half splurge by the Eagles, 66-55.

Canyon scorched the nets in the last two periods by sinking 10 of 14 attempted field goals for a sizzling 72 per cent. Floydada was forced to press in an attempt to get the ball and as a result the Eagles dropped in 13 points from the charity line in the final period.

Both of the clubs notched identical 6-2 marks in district play, forcing the playoff to decide a state representative. Canyon had a 25-9 season record entering the bi-district tussle with District 1-AA winner Stinnett last Tuesday.

Coach Allen Simpson led Canyon to the state finals last season before it bowed to Class AA state champion Buna, 47-41.

The Friday night win was the second victory over the Whirlwinds this season. In the first battle at Canyon the Eagles took a 63-62 decision. Floydada eaked out a 65-63 win in the next meeting.

It was a team victory for the Eagles as outstanding performances were turned in by the entire squad. Canyon held a slight edge in rebounding over the Whirlwinds, 33-31. Steve Burgess snatched 11 caroms to pace the Eagles in that department. Eddie Poole grabbed 8.

The score was knotted seven times in the affair.

In the initial period the lead switched hands seven times. Canyon scored first on a free throw by Burgess. Floydada then took the lead 10-6 at 3:25 on a layup by Don Rainer. The Eagles fought back to tie the score at 10-10.

Canyon held a five point lead, 17-12, with 48 seconds remaining in the quarter.

But Floydada trimmed the margin to one point, 17-16 entering the second stanza.

Don Breitling paced Canyon in the first period by dropping in seven points. He sank six the next quarter.

Floydada took the lead early in the second period, 18-17. But it was short-lived as Canyon fought back and took a five point lead, 30-25, at 2:05 on a pair of free tosses by Bobby Evans.

With the seconds slowly ticking away Canyon held a 32-31 lead and the first half buzzer about to sound. Butch Gilliland put up a fantastic shot from mid-court just as the buzzer sounded. It slipped through the nets to give Floydada a 33-32 halftime lead.

This shot alone, however, wasn't enough to derail the high-flying Eagles.

In the fourth period the count was tied on four occasions. But Canyon grabbed the lead, 41-39, at 2:24 on a short jump shot by Poole. It was Canyon from there until the final buzzer.

Going into the final period of play Canyon was out front, 45-42.

Then came the final stanza in which the Eagles set a torrid pace that quelled any playoff aspirations the Whirlwinds might have possessed. This was the Eagles biggest period as they ripped the nets for 21 points.

Canyon held a five to eight point lead through most of the first five minutes of play. Although, Floydada rallied and trimmed the margin to three points with 3:10 remaining to be played, 54-51.

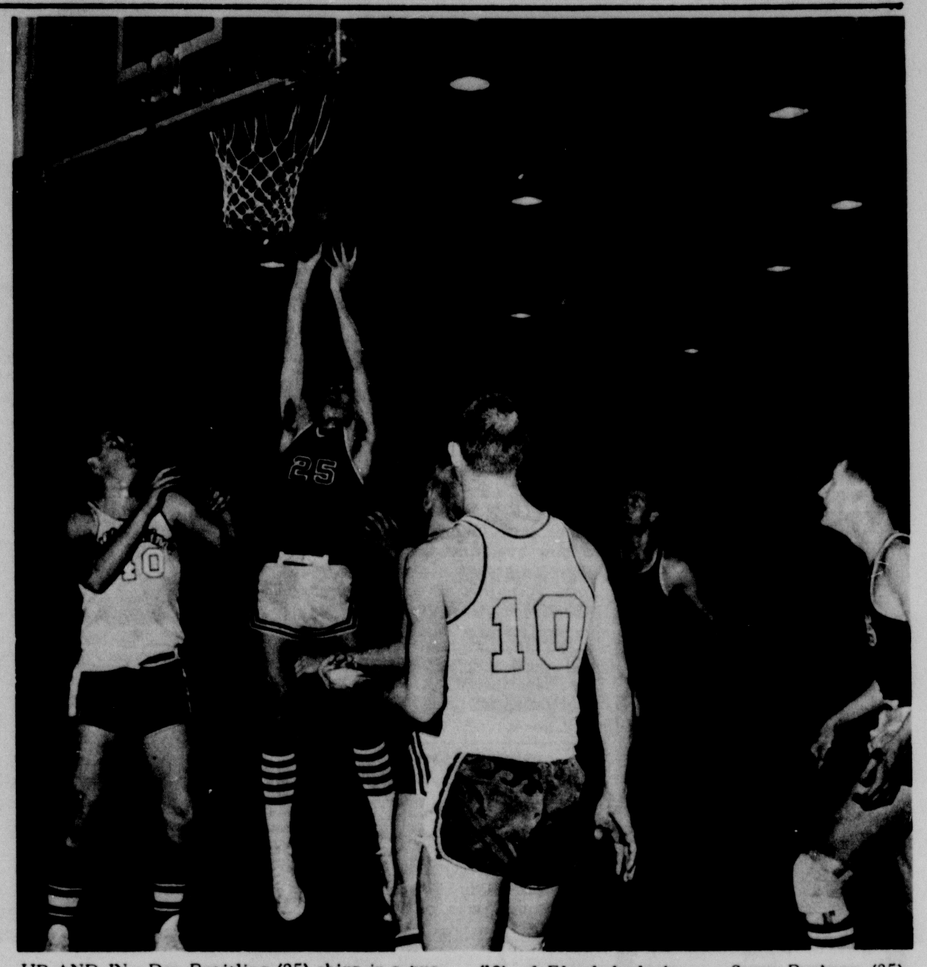

By controlling both boards in the final three minutes Canyon managed to gradually ease out the 11 point victory.

It's doubtful that Canyon will meet many teams that are tougher than the Whirlwinds in the playoffs--at least we hope not.

Canyon hit on 12 of 26 field goal attempts in the first half for 46 per cent. It connected on 22 of 30 attempts for the entire game for a warm 59 per cent.

Don Rainer of Floydada paced all scorers with a 21 point performance.

Canyon displayed a well-balanced attack by placing four players in double digits. Evans led the parade with 18 points. Breitling had 17, Poole 14, Burgess 13, and Jody Richardson and Jim Whinnery had 11 each.

UP AND IN--Don Breitling (25) chips in a two-pointer in the Canyon-Floydada tussle Friday at Tulia. Don Rainer (40) and Vernie Moore (10) of Floydada look on. Steve Burgess (35) and Eddie Poole, in the background, watch the action. Canyon won the playoff tilt, 66-55.

Stompers In Victory Over Graham Plow

The West Texas State Stompers tripped Graham Plow for the second time this season Saturday, 80-69.

West Texas now has a 7-5 record. It will be host to Lubbock Christian College Thursday and to the Texas Tech freshmen Friday. Both games will be 6 p.m preceding the varsity contests.

The Stompers jumped to an early 12-3 lead and led by as much as 15 points on three or four occasions in the first half.

At halftime West Texas was out front, 46-31.

With eight minutes remaining to be played in the contest Graham Plow hit a hot streak and pulled within three points of the hosts, 59-56.

Harry Lisle turned in an outstanding performance along with Wade King. Lisle played a good floor game and intercepted pass after pass to stop Graham Plow's fast break.

King paced the Stompers scoring attack with 22 points. Lisle had 17, Billy Patton 14, Mickey Fitts 14, Wallace Franklin 8 and Ted Wheeler 5.

Fitts also pulled down 15 rebounds.

West Texas connected on 34 of 83 attempted field goals for 40.9 per cent. Graham Plow hit on 26 of 79 tries for 32.9 per cent.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Read last week end were Mr. and Mrs. Don Powell and children, Donna and Fred, and the Buddy Hobdys and their children, Bill and Jodie, all of Canadian.

Arvin Triplett and Don spent several days last week in Hesston, Kansas and Woodward, Oklahoma on a business trip and visiting with relatives.

Two Highly-Touted Quintets To Try West Texas Buffaloes

Basketball action for hungry basketball fans will be here tonight (Thursday), Friday and Saturday in the West Texas Fieldhouse.

West Texas State will entertain the highly-touted Oklahoma City Chieftains tonight at 8 p.m. to kickoff the weekend of action. Phillips' 66 Oilers invade Canyon Friday in an attempt to add to their prestige.

The West Texas State Stompers play at 6 p.m. preliminaries to each of the Buffalo games. Lubbock Christian College will be looking for its second win over the Stompers. West Texas fell in the first outing, 69-67. Texas Tech's freshmen will be here Friday. The Picadors drilled the Stompers 88-69 in the last meeting.

But that isn't all!

West Texas will close out the 1963-64 season against New Mexico State here Monday at 8 p.m. The Buffs tripped New Mexico at Las Cruces in the first meeting in an overtime battle, 55-53.

The Regional Class B Tournament will be held in the fieldhouse Friday and Saturday. Friday games will be played in the afternoon and will not conflict with the West Texas contest.

The NCAA bound Chieftains have nailed down an at-large berth in the playoffs. But, they will surely come to Canyon with fire in their eyes after absorbing an earlier licking at the hands of West Texas, 56-54.

West Texas will be encountering one of the nation's tallest teams in OCU. But the Buffs are fighting for their goal set at the start of the season--a break-even year--and another win over the Chieftains would assure them of at least 12-12 season. So, it is certain the OCU willcollide headon with a riled up herd of Buffaloes.

The results can be anybody's guess.

Frank Schaffer, 6-8 Borger senior, will return after missing the McMurry tilt Saturday due to an injury. His heighth will certainly be of aid to West Texas on the boards.

Then Friday will come the battle with defending AAU champion Phillips' 66.

Coach Jimmy Viramontes commented, "I am particularly pleased with the fact that the home crowd is finally beginning to see the type of ball that we are capable of playing and had played on some of the road games. In looking forward to OCU we are well aware that they will be doubly tough, particularly now that they have been selected as a member at-large in the NCAA playoffs. They possess great personnel. Among these is Bud Koper, among the nation's leading scorers, Henry Jackson, a 6-7 center, and others which enable the Chieftains to field one of the tallest, if not the tallest, team in the country."

"In Phillips' 66 people will be able to see the likes of former All-Americans Jerry Shipp, Bobby Rascoe, Mike Moran, and tremendous reserve play from the diminutive and popular Del Ray Mounts," Viramontes continued.

In discussing the players and performances up to this point Viramontes had nothing but praise for the entire team.

"Scottie Pierce has shown flashes of greatness in the past but as of lately he has been more consistent, and it was especially evident in the last game against McMurry. If he continues at this pace his playing days may not end here at West Texas. Physically he has attributes to further his career either in the pros or in the AAU ranks.

"The big factor in our team performance in both McMurry games was James Strahan's defense. He was our key in heading our group defense against their playmaker Clayton Brooks. Looking at statistics one would be inclined in evaluating on his point production only.

"Gail Simpson continues to improve on his floor generalship and outstanding defensive work...I was pleased in Kirby Pugh's performance against McMurry. Frank Schaffer was sidelined by injury, the latter is regretful, in the fact that he was like the other players and just coming into his own. If improvement continues he should be ready by Thursday.

"Marvin Mitchell continues to do the job of a 6-5 player on the boards although being only 6-2. He continues to run with the little ones, however. This particular role is vital to our type of play.

"Some of the other boys, though they may be reserves, contribute to the success of the club by producing when called upon, Viramontes stated.

Another point Viramontes was very pleased with was the Buffs' fine shooting percentage from the charity line in the last three games. They have connected on 71 of 86 attempts for a hot 82.7 per cent.

West Texas is clipping the nets for 49.3 percent a contest--good for second place in the NCAA statistics. It has connected on 609 of 1,236 attempted field goals in the 20 college tilts.

Pierce leads in scoring with a 13.7 average, rebounds with 184 and in accuracy from the field after dumping 108 of 191 shots.

Mitchell is second in scoring with a 12.6 per game average.

Strahan and Pugh are both scoring in double digits with 12.0 and 10.2 averages, respectively.

Wallace Franklin is pacing the freshmen scoring attack with 18.7 points per game. Ted Wheeler is 12.3 and Billy Patton 10.3.

Indians Fall To Stampede Of Rampaging Buffaloes

BY JOHN SHIELDS

Never you mind what the history books say.

It's the buffaloes that win over the injuns.

The Buffaloes of West Texas State proved it Friday by romping to a 106-88 win over the invading McMurry Indians.

It was the second time this season that McMurry has fallen to the charge of the Buffs. West Texas slipped past the visitors, 76-70, at Abilene.

In taking the win it marked the third time this season for West Texas to hit the century mark.

The Buffs are now 11-9 against college foes and 11-10 for the season.

Scottie Pierce, a 6-7 Post, Tex. senior, was the big gun for West Texas. He ripped the nets in a 29 point performance and picked off 13 rebounds in the process.

Kirby Pugh took up some of the slack left by injured Frank Schaffer. The Abilene product chipped in 20 points and hauled down seven caroms.

West Texas had trouble getting its offense to clicking at the outset of the tilt. But when the Buffs did begin to roll, they really rolled.

McMurry pumped in five points before the hosts managed to find the net. James Strahan put in two points for the Buffs on a 20 foot jump shot with almost two minutes gone in the contest.

The Indians then held their largest lead of the game at seven points, 11-4. West Texas took its first lead after an 11 point production while limiting the visitors to nothing, 15-11.

McMurry gained the lead for the final time with 13:15 left in the first half, 16-15. The Buffs wasted no time after that in extending its lead. At 8:03 the Buffaloes took a nine point lead, 28-19.

At halftime West Texas held a 47-33 advantage over McMurry.

Pierce came back after a 10 point first half to put in 19 more in the first 14 minutes of the second half.

It was evident at the opening of the final 20 minutes that McMurry wouldn't be able to muster enough steam to overcome the lead held by West Texas.

Spectators could all but smell the nets burning after the assault by both teams in the torrid second half.

The Buffs held a convincing 22 point lead with 7:42 remaining in the contest, 88-66.

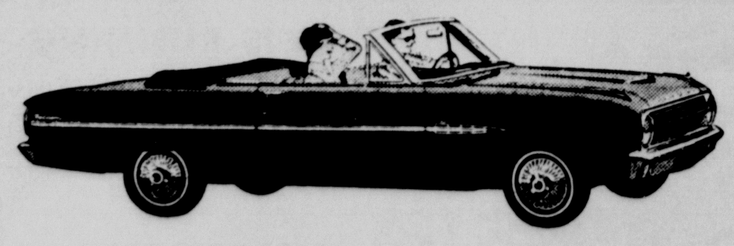

West Texas dropped in 35 of 69 attempted field goals for a fine 50.7 per cent and 36 of 47 free throw attempts for 76.6 per cent. The Buffs outrebounded the Indians, 46-36.

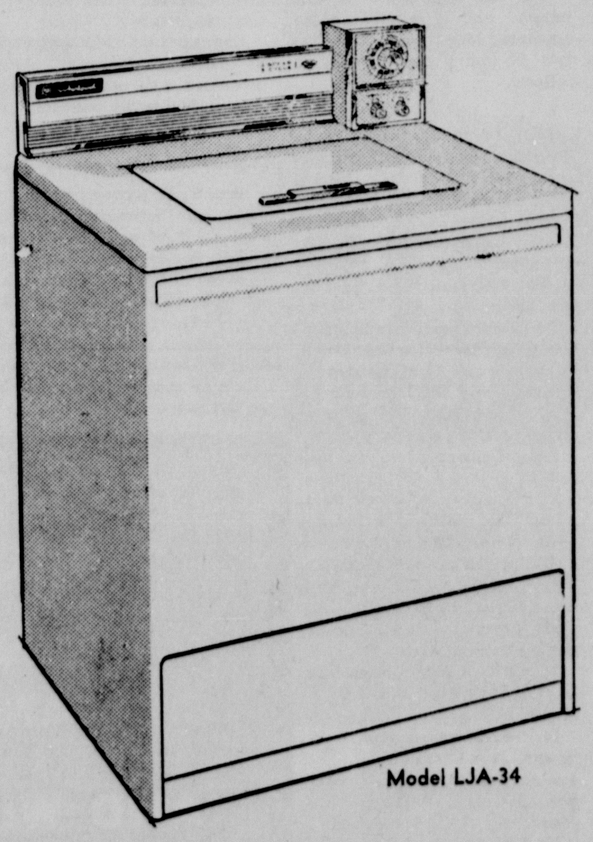

McMurry didn't put up as many shots from the field but did have a better shooting percentage--56.9 per cent. From the charity line it connected on 22 of 34 attempts for 64.7 per cent.

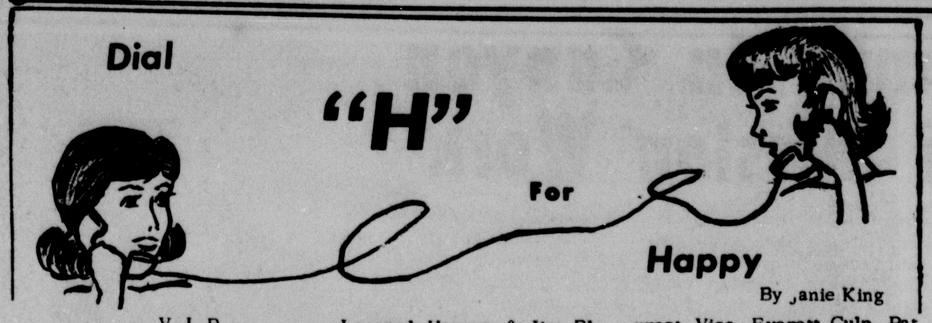

Pierce was the game's leading scorer with his 29 point output. Pugh followed with 20, Marvin Mitchell 15, Gail Simpson 13, Joe McWilliams 9, James Strahan 8, David Shearod 6, George Scott 4 and Dale Burrows 2.

Preston Vice chipped in 28 points in a losing effort for the Indians.

V. I. P.

If you see a beautiful maroon car flash by, you will have just gotten a glimpse of our V. I. P. for the week -- none other than Mrs. Bill Vernon, or Royce, as she's known to most. Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, is Royce's home town, although Happy has been her home since her marriage to Clovis "Bill" Vernon, on June 1, 1946. They have two sons: William David (Bill) who is 15 years old and Stephen Leigh who is 12. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fuller, of Oklahoma City.

She has brown hair, grey eyes, and stands 5'6" and she celebrates her birthday on December 23. Royce graduated from Classen High School, in Oklahoma City, and received her B. A. degree with a major in English and history in 1946 from Mary-Hardin Baylor College in Belton. Her full name is Royce Virginia Vernon.

Royce's interests are wide and her talents are channelled into many different activities: she is the organist at the First Baptist Church of Happy, a member of the Study Club, president-elect of Music Club, YWA counselor, a member of P. T. A., along with teaching organ and piano.

Her pet peeve is insincerity in a word. Red is her favorite color, and when watching television, she prefers to turn to the Danny Kaye Show. In response to the question, "What food do you like best?", she replied, "Food? -- YES!"

Trying to keep up with her children and their activities is her pasttime, which is quite an accomplishment in itself. And if Rock Hudson is playing in a movie, she knows it has to be a good one. She very much dislikes the coupons in magazines, which cause the magazine to fall open to these certain places, -- and she immediately rips them out.

J. Edwin Low Family In Canyon On Vacation From Mission Work

J. Edwin Low family relaxes in their living room in Canyon and recall many experiences which makes life in Africa so exciting. The Lows returned last year from their third 3-year term as Baptist missionaries in Nigeria, Africa. From left to right are Jonathan, Mrs. Low, Martha, Dr. Low and David, seated on the floor. Dr. Low practices medicine in Canyon.

BY MARGO WILLIAMS

Jack-of-all-trades with a speciality in helping others, is a title for foreign missionaries.

Especially for Dr. and Mrs. J. Edwin Low and their three children.

The five-member Low family returned in 1961 from their third 3-year term as Baptist missionaries in Nigeria, Africa, and when talking with them, you quickly learn that missionaries are more than a doctor, a teacher, a minister. A missionary is all these and more.

Dr. Low, practicing medicine in Neblett Hospital in Canyon, and his quiet, attractive wife, spoke in soft voices as they told of life in another part of the world.

"As a doctor I have a general medical practice in Africa," Dr. Low said casually.

But Mrs. Low quickly inserted, "The illness is very dramatic, extreme and severe for those of us who are not doctors. The people have a high death rate due to malaria, and for those of us inexperienced in medicine it is very dramatic."

The Lows met as undergraduates at East Texas State College in Commerce, both intending to serve as foreign missionaries. Following graduation Low entered Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, still thinking of preparing himself as a missionary.

His future wife completed college as a teacher in history and speech and began teaching in Farmersville, near Dallas, after receiving her diploma.

The young couple was married in 1944 and Low served as an intern in City-County Hospital in Fort Worth during that year.

With their eyes still on an ultimate goal of the missionary field, the new doctor and his wife moved to Chattanooga, Tennessee, where he served as a resident physician.

Uncle Sam came next, and the Lows had their first chance to be in foreign lands.

"We were sent to a small Army security post in Asmara, Eritrea, East Africa, where Edwin was the only medical doctor.

"Jonathan (first child) was three years old and Martha was two months old when we went over.

"We loved being there and we learned much about the country," Mrs. Low recalled.

The experience only whetted the Lows appetite to serve as foreign missionaries. They returned to the United States in September of 1949 and within six months they were ready to return to West Africa as Baptist missionaries.

"We spent that six months getting ready to go to Nigeria," Mrs. Low continued. And yes, they were excited about their new livelihood.

In early 1950 the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board sent the Low family on their first adventure as foreign missionaries. They were prepared to meet many of the problems and they were versed in problems which might arise.

The first obstacle in any country is language, and the Lows joined the other missionary families in a language school, sponsored by the mission board.

"We studied the Hausa language five days a week for five months. We would meet in homes of the missionaries and would study and talk together. We would also go to the market and talk with the people," Mrs. Low pointed out.

"English is the official language, but 200 languages and dialects are spoken in Nigeria. We learned only two," she said.

After three years of teaching, helping, doctoring and learning, the Lows returned to their homeland for a year's furlough.

"We went to Dallas that first year back so I could work in surgery," Low explained.

"Things had changed since we had been gone. Styles had changed and the children did not understand school in the United States.

"In Africa you teach your children at home until the fifth grade. Every morning is spent on the back porch or on the kitchen table doing lessons.

"Well, when we got back here and people began talking about changing classes and picking courses and special classes, our children did not even know what they were talking about," Mrs. Low recalled.

Mrs. Low continued explaining a humorous situation which popped up that first year back in the States.

"One day Martha's teacher called me and asked me if I could explain why my child insisted on chewing gum in class and would get up and walk out of the room to get a drink of water whenever she wanted.

"I laughed and said yes, I thought I could explain. This was the first time Martha had seen so much gum in a long time, and she had learned to make it last longer than anyone I had ever known.

"The teacher was very understanding when I told her the circumstances surrounding Martha's education up to that time," she said.

Again the family packed up and made their way to Africa for another three years. They were learning during each trip and they were eager to return to Africa and help more people if possible.

On their second furlough the family settled in Fort Worth and attended the Baptist Seminary.

"We wanted to learn better missionary methods and learn more about the Bible," she said.

The family was growing with an addition of another son, David. And as the family grew the dreams of what could be done in the town of Kontagora were growing and expanding.

"When we returned for the third term we began working on building a hospital. We had difficulty in obtaining the land because white people can not own land in Africa. So we had to lease it, and we had to obtain permission from the local on up to the national authorities," she continued to explain.

They did get the permission and work began on the 32-bed hospital. And people had to be combined to make a hospital.

"We had one missionary nurse in Kontagora and six national nurses. We had 12 practical nurses who were Nigerians and the lab technician was a Nigerian.

"We had a native chaplin and he was wonderful in helping us.

"Also the husband of the missionary nurse could do carpentry and he was wonderful in helping to install and maintain the hospital equipment," Dr. Low said.

Swiftly another three years were over for the family and they came home for another furlough. This time they came to Canyon and they made plans to stay for three years until Jon and Martha completed high school.

Are they planning to go back?

"Oh yes, we feel we will have time for another term before David gets out of high school." Low said.

Looking back over nine years in foreign countries the Lows recall, compare and explain many facets of life in both countries.

"In Africa they need help so much. It is very satisfying work for those who feel a spiritual motivation for it. You can't help feeling needed and we get a great deal of satisfaction out of knowing we may be giving some help.

"Their physical needs are a challenge to any doctor," Mrs. Low explained.

"I think the most rewarding thing is seeing the people become Christians who wouldn't otherwise be.

"Missionaries may not always be allowed in Africa because of the political situations. But the churches will always be there regardless of whether white men are there or not," Dr. Low contigued.

Advantages and disadvantages of rearing children outside their home country were listed by the Lows.

"We have always felt the advantages outweighed the disadvantages. In the United States there are so many distractions which hinder the development of individuality of a child. There is not such a strict homelife here and the children do not learn to entertain themselves in their own way.

"In Africa we had no television and everything closed at sundown. So we became a close family and the children learned to entertain themselves.

"They also learned a great deal of self reliance as far as hobbies, pets and games are concerned.

"They were around missionaries who have had strong convictions of life. I think the motivations of the missionaries have been good for the children.

"They seem to have a greater interest in world affairs and they have had the privilege of seeing other parts of the world.

"One of the most important things is the absense of discrimination. Some of the prejudices which people in the United States have are completely foreign to our children," Mrs. Low said.

As for the disadvantages, Jon offered one which he felt had been important to him as he moved about.

"It is difficult to move into a new town and make friends all over again. It is good for us and I have enjoyed making new friends, but when you first come back it is a strange feeling to begin all over again."

"One of the disadvantages of living out of the United States is the lack of keen competition which the children do not have in Africa. Also, as Jon said, the children need roots. But if you offer them a good home and strong family circle they have roots and the adjustments to new places will be minor," Low explained.

"The children outside the U. S. mature socially slower than they do in America. I think maturing at an early age is a disadvantage, and it is an adjustment which must be made when you return home.

"And the schooling facilities were not as good in Africa as they are here. Teachers and facilities were very good at the boarding school the children attended, but there were little organized sports. The children had to take correspondence courses throughout the grades," Mrs. Low said.

A jack-of-all trades is the true title of these folks who spend their lives helping other people in other lands. But the foreign missionaries love their rewarding work and are eager to get back to the work which they feel is so necessary.

Local youngsters brought in $136.76 to be used by the March of Dimes association.

Mothers were responsible for collecting a total of $780.39 during their annual Mothers' March late in January. Mrs. Crawford Ruthart was in charge of the march.

Canyon cafes, drug stores and other businesses held a coffee day for the MOD on Jan. 18 and local coffee drinkers gave $112.01 to the cuase. Allen Parsons headed the coffee day committee.

Dewey Bryant, city manager, served as chairman for the MOD mailers which were sent to county residents. Approximately $350 was sent to the First National Bank in Canyon in response to the letters.

"We do want to thank everyone who gave money to the March of Dimes and for those who helped in the campaign. Our drive was a big success because of all the help we received from local people," Wirt said.

DOUBLE GUNN BROS STAMPS TUESDAY AT BELLAHS

Dakota Farmer Likes Liberty, U. S. Style

BY FRED TRIPP

"It's some of the richest land in the world. If anybody but those people had it, there would be no end to all you could do with it."

The land is Siberia--an immense stretch of plain, forest and river that makes up Russia in Asia, between the Ural Mountains and the Pacific.

"Those people". . . are the present communist masters of it.

The speaker is Jack Dvirnak of Killdeer, N. D., a handsome oak of a man who still bosses the job on 7,000 acres of farm and pasture, despite his 78 years.

In Canyon last week to visit a daughter, Mrs. Newton Starnes of 2107 Third Ave., he and Mrs. Dvirnak took time out from family festivities for Dvirnak to talk about the old days in Russia, where he was born, and incidentally to tell an American success story.

"It was not good," he says of the times when Czar Nicholas II presided over an empire racked by defeat, poverty and political discontent, "but it was better than it is now. They have no sense, those Soviet leaders today. They are blind men, deaf men. No words can say how much I hate them for what they have done to Russia, to the whole world. . ."

Dvirnak came to the United States in 1908 as a political refugee, a term applicable to many Russian immigrants to America in the early 1900s. With him he brought a capacity for work and a determination to share in the promise of a free world.

But first he had to solve the problem of getting out of Russia during one of those periods, fairly common in history, when authority took a dim view of emigration.

"I went to a friend of my father's who was in the shipping business," says Dvirnak. "I told him I wanted to leave Russia for good, and I asked him to help me.

"Well, this man had a passport made out for himself and his sons, and it didn't identify the sons. He said he was thinking of using it to push one of his own boys through the line, and he said I could go with the boy as his 'brother.'

"It worked real fine. The officer on the dock just looked at us, smiled, and told us to go aboard . . ."

Dvirnak landed in Philadelphia in January, 1908. He was 22 years old, spoke little English and had very little money.

"Mister Taft was president," he recalls, "and it was one of those times when there was no work. For a while I stayed with a Russian friend in Virginia, then I decided to try my luck in Halifax, in Canada.

"Well, there was no work there either, so I went out to Winnipeg to get a job in the harvest. I got there too early, much too early, so I thought I'd better get back to the States and maybe get a job in some of the new country that was opening up in the Dakotas.

MR. AND MRS. JACK DVIRNAK of Killdeer, N. D., visited in Canyon last week with their daughter, Mrs. Newton Starnes of 2107 Third Ave. Dvirnak, who left Russia in 1908 to become a U. S. citizen, took time out from family visiting to recall some highlights of his adventurous early life.

"I remember I got to Minot with 80 cents and two suitcases, and in the railroad station I saw a man who looked like he might speak Russian. He did and I told him my troubles. I told him I had nothing to eat for three days, and I offered to sell him some handkerchiefs, fine Japanese silk handkerchiefs that I bought for three rubles each in Vladivostok.

"The man looked at the handkerchiefs and said he would give me a quarter. I told him, 'That much you should take and buy a rope, and hang yourself.'

"But I was lucky. There was another man in the station who was listening to us. He came up and said, 'You must be So-and-So's boy, you look just like him. When he mentioned my father's name, the big tears came into my eyes and rolled down my face. This man gave me a dollar and I went over and ate at a Chinese restaurant . . ."

With the lucky buck, Dvirnak turned a critical corner, and his story thereafter takes on the color and hope of the pioneer.

From Minot he made his way to the little community of Kiev--so named by a population of Russian origin--where he latched on to a variety of odd-jobs and went to school.

"I finished third-grade in English and eighth grade in arithmetic," he says proudly.

About this time also he heard of homesteads opening up north of Dickinson, N. D.

"A bunch of us got together and went out there and filed on some properties," he says. "That winter I worked in a brickyard to get some money together, and I did some lumbering in Minnesota. Then, I came back to Dickinson and worked a while in a hotel there, and in 1912 I settled down to farming. I've been at it ever since."

Dvirnak glosses over the patient years and hard work that have brought him a degree of prosperity which, had he achieved it in the old country, would have long ago ended his career and possibly his life.

"In Russia now there is no place for a farmer who knows what he's doing and so produces crops and makes a little money. That doesn't fit the official ideal-and nobody, nobody, can tell those people in Moscow anything. That is why they now have trouble in agriculture. They won't listen. . ."

Of the land of his birth, however, Dvirnak talks with a mixture of affection and sadness, and his memories of the first 22 years of his life are the vivid memories of a man who has lived less with books and newspapers than with the world around him.

At the age of 16, he journeyed from a little town near Kiev, in southwestern Russia, across the continent to a job in Vladivostok, the Russian "window on the East"--an odyssey which he remembers in such detail that his failure to count the ties on the single-track Trans-Siberian railroad shows up as a glaring omission.

"And the plains around Vladivostok," he says. "You should see them. In spring, a carpet of peonies two feet high, stretching far away. And lilies-of-the-valley, too. You know how strong they smell? Imagine acres of them growing wild everywhere, after the snow is gone. . ."

On at least one occasion, too, he heard the bang of guns and the whiz of bullets fired in anger.

"After the Japanese war in 1905 there was trouble all over Russia," he says. "There was trouble in Vladivostok, and I remember one time when a bunch of people, about 10,000, maybe, demonstrated against the military power. They marched up to a fort at the top of a hill. The soldiers in the fort began to shoot, and some other soldiers on a train in the railroad station began to shoot, from the side, and then the Cossacks came up in the back of the crowd and started to use their whips.

"I was on the hill, to one side, and I saw it all. The I heard the bullets coming closer in the air, and I decided it was time to run. . ."

Dvirnak tells his story in accented English, with clarity, point and humor.

Says he, of the Japanese victory at Port Arthur in 1905:

"Ten years they spent getting ready. The Russians did nothing, because a Russian only has to put his foot down and mash three Japanese, they're so little. So they beat the Russians."

Of the battle of Tsushima Strait, when the Japanese Admiral Togo annihilated a Russian fleet:

"So the Russians found out the Japanese had good ships and sailors. Over here, we had to wait until 1941 to find out. Admiral Nimitz would say the same thing, I bet."

On the current China-Soviet dispute:

"When I was a boy in Vladivostok, the Chinaman was like the Negro slave over here in the old South. He did the dirty work--cooking and washing and hard labor. But China at that time was falling apart--every warlord ruled in his province like a king.

"Now China is a united, strong country, and I think Russia is more afraid of it than of the U. S. The Russians know we won't start a war for nothing, but they don't know what the Chinese will do.

"I think, though, that some day Russia will have to give up Vladivostok. It's stuck out there between China and Korea, and the Chinese need the land."

Meanwhile, far from the old scenes of strife, Dvirnak cultivates his broad acres and gives three cheers for freedom.

"To know what it really means," he says, "you should live once where there is no freedom. You can tell people about Russia now, how hard it is just to live, but they don't really understand because they have never been there. . ."

From Canyon, Dvirnak and his wife plan to return to their farm where Dvirnak wants to work "one more year before I retire."

"He's been saying that for the past 10 years," says Mrs. Dvirnak.

But our stouthearted husbandman from North Dakota is not to be budged.

"One more year," says he firmly--as firmly as only a man who loves the American land can say it.

Two Women Delegates At Assembly

Mrs. Ross Russell and Mrs. L. H. Brotherton served as Canyon's voting delegates at the state assembly for United Churchwomen of Texas in Lubbock, Feb. 18-19.

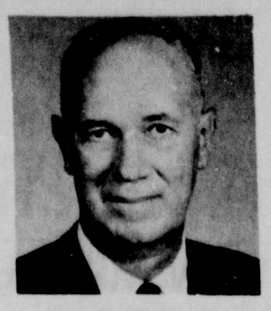

"The Church Ecumenical--It's Ministries" was the theme for the two-day convention which was held at the First Methodist Church of Lubbock with Mrs. Theodore Wallace of Kansas City, Missouri, national president, as the main guest speaker.

Mrs. Luther Holcomb of Dallas, state president, presided during the business sessions which were devoted to the programs of the United Church Women and ministries supported by the organization. Special events held at the state assembly included an afternoon tea at the High Plains Museum on the campus of Texas Technological College and a banquet at St. John's Methodist Church, Wednesday evening.

Maj. Gen. Robert P. Taylor, chief chaplain of the US Air Force, was a special guest at an evening assembly service which included special musical selections by the Texas Tech choir.

"The Harvester" was dedicated during the two-day assembly. The special station wagon, equipped with cameras and equipment, was purchased through savings stamp-book donations by members of the United Churchwomen of Texas. The vehicle will serve as a mission station for organizations members' visits in the field to speak with migrant workers.

Attending the meeting from Canyon were the delegates, Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Brotherton, and Mrs. Charles Wilkinson, Mrs. George de Schweinitz, and Mrs. J. D. Barker.

MRS. JOHN T. Boone and her daughter, Diana 10, are pictured with a plate of Chewy Coconut Bars, the recipe Mrs. Boone shares with our readers this week. Mrs. Boone, mother of four, says that Diana "is tall enough to see in the pot and will soon be learning to cook like her older sister, Alicia."

Mrs. John T. Boone Offers Chewy Coconut Bars Recipe

BY LORENA MILLER

Chewy Coconut Bars is the favorite recipe of Mrs. John T. Boone, mother of four, and she has selected to share the recipe with our readers this week.

Mrs. Boone, the former Winifred Wilmeth, is a graduate of Amarillo High School where she majored in home economics and after graduation worked as a secretary and bookkeeper until she became the bride of Boone in November, 1948.

Known as Winifred by her friends, Mrs. Boone is the daughter of Gladys Sullivan of Amarillo and G. K. Wilmeth of Gruver. She has two sisters, Louise Gassaway of Phillips and Virginia Pauwels of Denton. Mrs. Gassaway has two daughters and is a secretary to her husband who is general manager for Mayflower Moving Company in Borger.

Her other sister, Virginia, is a former student of West Texas State University and is presently completing requirements for a degree in library science at Denton.

When the Boones married in 1948, he was employed as a carpenter in Amarillo. The young couple spent their honeymoon in Florida and extended the original trip into a residence of several months before returning to Texas.

Boone, who worked for several building firms as a carpenter, was raised in Oklahoma and served with the Marines during World War II. He was employed with Ramey Construction Company in Amarillo for about seven years advancing to building superintendent when the couple moved to Canyon and he is now the director for the physical plant at West Texas State University.

His immediate relatives include two brothers, Edgar and Albert, who both live in Amarillo, a half sister in California and a sister, Cathryn, who is a secretary in Alaska.

The Boones and their four children, three daughters and a son, have lived at 2614 North 3rd Avenue in Canyon for about a year and a half. They are members of the First Methodist Church of Canyon, where Mrs. Boone is secretary of literature for the Woman's Society of Christian Service and is presently serving on the nominating committee for the group. Among other activities she was a teacher in the vacation Bible school at the church last summer.

The Boone children, Alicia 13, Diana 10, John 9, and Cynthia 5, are active in church work, school, and scout activities for the Brownies, Girl Scouts, and Cubs.

An honor roll student, Alicia is in the eighth grade and recently won a $5.00 prize as top saleslady in the FHA candy sale. She is in the Girl Scouts and is often busy in the Boone kitchen baking cookies for the family.

Diana, who "was almost a New Year's baby", is in the fourth grade at Canyon Elementary School and brings home good grades, though she is not an honor roll student, according to her mother. Diana is a member of the Brownies troop directed by Mrs. Sam Jolly.

John, who will be nine in March, is in the third grade at Canyon Elementary School and prefers math instead of science projects. "He likes recess, but not physical education classes," says his mother who commented that he brought home good report cards.

At present, John is working on arrow points in the Cub Scouts. He is a member of Cub Scout, Pack 31 and belongs to Den 4 which is supervised by Mrs. Lawrence Hunnicutt.

A pre-schooler, Cynthia, who will be five in March, keeps busy watching television and playing dolls while her brother and sisters attend school.

Mrs. Boone spends her spare time sewing for her family. "I enjoy sewing and it is one of my main hobbies," says Mrs. Boone. "I also enjoy cooking, but I seldom bake extra for the freezer because they disappear when the children get home from school."

"Alicia does most of our cookie baking," says Mrs. Boone. "Diana is 'tall enough' to start learning to cook now. I've always thought that when a child is tall enough to see whats cooking in the pot--it's the best time to get them interested in cooking," she says.

A family sport, fishing is enjoyed by the Boone family during the summer months. They also spend a lot of summer hours at the swimming pool.

The Boones' four bedroom home includes a large family livingroom, dining room and adjoining kitchen and is decorated with a variety of items made by the Boone children as school and scout projects.

"John made a white ceramic ash tray in Cub Scouts for his Daddy's Christmas present," says Mrs. Boone.

"Alicia is the artistic member of our family," said Mrs. Boone as she pointed out a landscape painting of an autumn scene which was made by Alicia as a Girl Scout project, and later framed by Mr. Boone.

"At the age of three, she was painting color books and was exceptionally good at staying in the lines, for a child that age," says her mother. Alicia's artistic talents probably are inherited from her mother's side of the family since Mrs. Boone's sisters and their families are all artistically inclined.

Chewy Coconut Bars is a favorite dessert of the Boone family. The recipe follows:

Chewy Coconut Bars

1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 cup shortening, (half butter)
1 cup sifted flour

Blend sugar and shortening, stir in flour. Pat the mixture onto the bottom of an ungreased pan, 9 x 9 x 2. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 10 minutes.

Meanwhile blend:

1/2 cup Karo Syrup, Red or Blue label
1 tsp. vanilla
2 Tbsp. flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
2 eggs, well beaten
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed firm

Ancient Scavenger Is Studied

A remote ancestor of the wolf and coyote that apparently existed only on the High Plains is now being studied and written up by Clyde T. Williams, a graduate student of vertebrate paleontology at the University of Kansas at Lawrence, Kan.

Williams, who is devoting his graduate thesis to the subject, visited Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum last week to examine fossil remains in the paleontology laboratory.

"It's a very good collection here--one of the best," he said, referring to an assortment of fossil jawbones, skulls and other remains of the extinct beast which Jack Hughes, head of the WTSU department of geology and paleontology, has collected over the years.

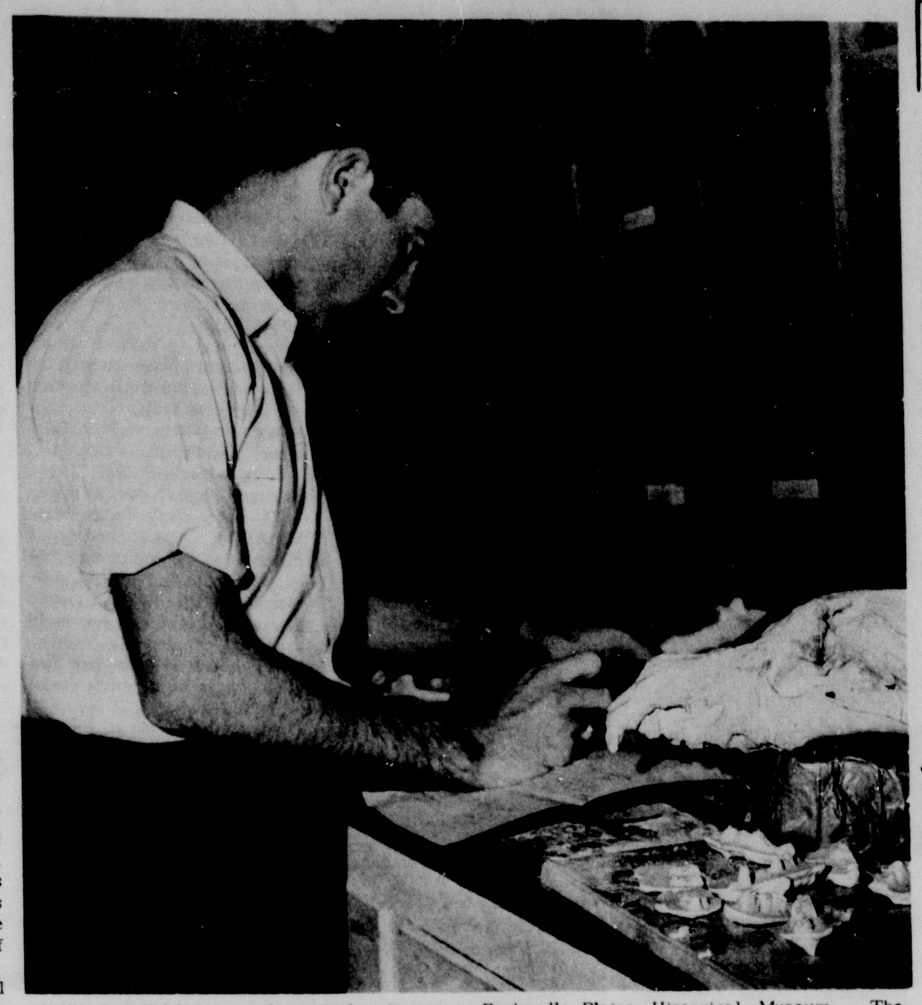

Williams identified the animal as a scavenger distantly related to the modern wolf and coyote.

"It was a hyena-like beast that seems to have served the functions of a scavenger and carrion-eater, since no trace of the true hyena has been found in North America," he said. "Oddly enough, fossil remains suggest that the animal was restricted to what is now the Great Plains and a section of California."

He conjectured the animal roamed the Plains from one to 20 million years ago, then vanished--"perhaps as a result of competition with early strains of wolf or coyote."

Much of the material relative to this particular subfamily has never been systematically studied, Williams said, and he hopes his work will close a gap in the evolutionary chain.

Williams hopes to get his graduate degree this year and go on to work on his doctorate at Harvard University. He is a member of the teaching staff at the University of Kansas and spent last summer on a research trip through Kenya, in East Africa.

CLYDE T. WILLIAMS, graduate student in vertebrate paleontology at the University of Kansas, works with some of the fossil remains of an extinct dog in the paleontology laboratory at Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum. The animal apparently lived only in areas which are now California and the High Plains.

Another visitor to avail himself of the Museum's fossil treasures last week was Walter Dalquest, professor of biology at Midwestern University at Wichita Falls.

Dalquest was interested in examining Hughes' fossil collection which illustrates the evolution of the horse.

Accompanying Dalquest to make sketches and measurements was Mrs. Faris Nowell, also of the university staff.

Mrs. Birda Smith of Durant, Oklahoma spent several days last week visiting the Don Ashley and Shirley Smith families at Umbarger.

Mrs. Smith was accompanied to the area by her youngest daughter, Mrs. Donald Trent and son Dwayne, of North Carolina.

Girl Scout Cookie Sale Is Friday

Umm, Umm---Cookies!

The annual Girl Scout "cookie sale" begins Friday, Feb. 28, with 163 Brownies and Girl Scouts participating in the week-long door-to-door sale.

The sale is a major fund raising project for the scout organization, and will be conducted until March 7 with members soliciting sales in a vast door-to-door campaign and special delegations calling on local businesses.

The cookies come in four flavors including chocolate and vanilla creams, scot-teas, mints, and savannahs and will sell for 50 cents per box. They will also be sold by the case according to Mrs. Dean Nicholas, cookie sales chairman. The cookies, which freeze well, may be used as the basis for other desserts and recipes will be available.

"We'll have to sell more than 4,136 boxes of cookies this year to top last year's record," says Mrs. Nicholas. The local scouts received $1,234.00 from their cookie sale last spring after deducting expenses paid to the bakery.

A majority of the proceeds will remain in the local scout council treasury for upkeep of the Girl Scout building, utilities and day camp expenses incurred by the organization.

"We have over 200 girls participating in Brownie and Girl Scout programs in Canyon," said Mrs. Nicholas. However, the girls do not take part in the cookie sale until they are third graders.

Music By Dr. Bright Featured

"Prelude and Fugue in F Minor," by Dr. Houston Bright, was used to open a recent concert of the University of Michigan Symphony Band, under direction of William Revelli, one of the most famous concert band conductors in the world today.

According to printed programs received here recently, the work was included on a program made up principally of the music of such stalwarts as Bach, Paganannini, and Frank.

Written early in 1957, "Prelude and Fugue" was premiered by the West Texas State University Concert Band under direction of the composer. Since publication, it has been performed by fine bands all over the nation, and is regularly used by outstanding instrumental directors in various Regional and National music workshops and clinics. It occupies a place on the official contest lists of several states, including Texas, and will be played by several local bands at the Region XI contest here on the WTSU campus early in April.

Professor of Music Theory and Composition and Director of Choirs at West Texas State University, Dr. Bright is a member of the Texas Composers Guild and the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers (ASCAP). Another of his band compositions, "Passacaglia in G Minor," is to be released soon by a prominent publisher.
